Brutality of the Israeli Occupation Army

- Israeli settlement guards shot and wounded a Palestinian man near Ma'ale Adumim settlement east of Jerusalem. The wounded man was shot in the stomach and was taken by Israeli Ambulance to the hospital for treatment. Israeli police claim the man rammed his car into a police squad car about 100 meters from the guard's booth. The police also said he was shot while trying to take the weapon of one of the guards. Israeli police and military closed the entrance of the settlement and intensified military presence in the area. IMEMC & Wafa (June 28, 2012).

- Israeli soldiers conducted military training inside the Palestinian village of Al-Aqaba, east of the West Bank city of Tubas, using live ammunition in the village's streets and neighborhoods. Dozens of soldiers invaded the village, as part of their military training, and started firing at random using rounds of live ammunition. It is worth mentioning that the Israeli army started, several days ago, a series of military drills in the area, and on the surrounding its hills and meadows, using live ammunition and even artillery shells. IMEMC & Wafa (June 28, 2012).

Israeli Arrests

The IOA also searched the houses of Abdel Kareem Abu 'Arram, Muhammad Issa Abu Taha, Jibril Abu Mariam, Mahmoud Rasheed Al 'Azza, Fadel Abu 'Ali, Iyad Abu Qbeita, Jameel Issa D'eis, Issa Al Hroush, Sameer Abu 'Ali and Anwar Abed Rabbo. Wafa (June 28, 2012).

Others

- Senior leaders of the Israeli army are demanding the Israeli government to grant the army $15 billion over the coming five years, in order to deploy the military in full capacity along the border with Egypt. The army conducted a study about the current situation in Egypt, especially after the overwhelming victory of the Muslim Brotherhood in the Egyptian parliamentary and presidential elections. Israeli military sources reported that the army should be deployed at full capacity along the border with Egypt "before it is too late". IMEMC (June 28, 2012).
