No injuries were reported in the military raid. (WAFA 6 July 2018)

Israeli Settler Violence

- Israeli settlers attacked the village of Urif, to the south of Nablus, in the occupied West Bank, set fire to agricultural land, and uprooted olive saplings and trees. Dozens of settlers, protected by a military escort, attacked the eastern part of the village, setting fire to tens of dunums of land planted with olive and almond trees and uprooting dozens of trees belonging to local residents. The Israeli Occupation Army raided a number of homes in the village amid the heavy firing of live ammunition. Clashes erupted between Israeli Occupation Army (IOA) and local villagers in the aftermath of the attack. The IOA fired live bullets and rubber-coated rounds to disperse the villagers, shooting and injuring a youth with a rubber bullet in the head. Dozens of suffocation cases were also reported. (Wafa 6 July 2018)

Erection of Outposts

- The Israeli state submitted its summaries to the Jerusalem District Court in a lawsuit filed by the settlers of the outpost of Mitzpe Kramim. The state informed the court that it agreed that the land, which is privately owned by Palestinians, would be transferred to the settlers who invaded it, to the extent that a number of technical matters were fulfilled. The State's argument is based on an interpretation of Section 5 of the Order Concerning Government Property, known as the "Market Regulations", according to which in certain cases, if a person invades the land in good faith, the landowner receives compensation and the squatter receives the land.
