Israeli Settler Violence

- Several armed Israeli settlers attacked more than 15 Palestinian-owned vehicles in northern Nablus city in the West Bank. Two Israeli settlers' vehicles, carrying several armed settlers from the nearby Homash settlement, got out of their vehicles and began opening fire randomly at empty Palestinian-owned vehicles, parked nearby. The settlers' attack on Palestinian vehicles caused substantial damage to many of the vehicles. (IMEMC 20 May 2020)
- Dozens of Jewish settlers from Yitzhar Settlement attempted to storm Nablus and break into Joseph's Tomb east of the city despite the coronavirus lockdown. A state of alert prevailed in Nablus after dozens of Jewish settlers, escorted by armed Israeli Army, stormed Salem village in the eastern outskirts of the city. Despite the lockdown and movement restrictions, Israeli settlers, backed by the IOA, have repeatedly attempted to force their way into Joseph's Tomb since the coronavirus crisis started, which sparked confrontations during which a number of Palestinians were injured. - The Israeli Occupation Army (IOA) seized a mobile home in Furush Beit Dajan village, located to the east of West Bank city of Nablus.
