A number of settlers also performed Talmudic rituals or prayers during their tours at the Islamic holy site, mainly in its eastern area. (PALINFO 5 September 2021)
- A Palestinian citizen from the occupied Jerusalem neighborhood of Silwan embarked on demolishing his own home after he was forced to do so by Israeli municipality of West Jerusalem to avoid paying exorbitant costs if the municipality carries out the demolition on its own. Ayman Abu Wahdan said he was forced to demolish his own home after the Israeli municipality issued a demolition order for the home under the pretext it was built without a permit. Abu wahdan had no choice but to demolish the 50-square-meter home to avoid paying unreasonable demolition costs to the Israeli municipality. (IMEMC 4 September 2021)
- The Israeli army forced a Palestinian to demolish his under-construction home in Wadi ar-Rababa neighborhood, in Silwan town, south of the Al-Aqsa Mosque, in occupied Jerusalem. The home is owned by Ahmad Younes Abu Hadwan, and was built on his land. Abu Hadwan had to demolish his 50 square/meter under construction home using basic handheld tools to avoid the excessively high fines and fees, especially if the City Council in occupied Jerusalem uses its workers and equipment. It is worth mentioning that the family stopped the construction of their home ten years ago, after receiving a demolition order, and have since been going to court and trying to obtain all needed permits and documents. While Israel continues to build and expand its illegal colonies, Palestinian communities and towns, in occupied Jerusalem, and various areas in the occupied West Bank, continue to be denied the right to build or expand homes and property. Israel has been issuing hundreds of demolition orders against existing Palestinian homes and property, including under-construction structures, and has already demolished many of them. (IMEMC 5 September 2021)

- Israeli occupation authorities embarked on levelling parts of the Al-Yusufiya Cemetery in the old city of occupied Jerusalem, in a prelude to establish a biblical national park on the site of the cemetery, according to local sources. The levelling works came after an Israeli court approved an order by the Israeli municipality of Jerusalem to resume the levelling works, which had been put on hold for a while. The court's order allows the transfer of the land of the cemetery into a national park so that Palestinian Muslims will no longer be able to build new graves there, which is part of the overall "Judaization" of Jerusalem by the Israeli occupation authorities. The cemetery houses the graves of Palestinian, Jordanian and Iraqi martyrs. In December 2020, the Israeli occupation authorities demolished the wall of the cemetery adjacent to the al-Asbat Gate and removed its archaeological stairs in addition to the stairs leading to the martyrs' cemetery. The cemetery is one of the most prominent Islamic landmarks in occupied Jerusalem, and houses the remains of senior Arab and Palestinian scholars, along with hundreds of martyrs. (IMEMC 5 September 2021)
- The Israeli occupation authority (IOA) forced a Jerusalemite young man to demolish part of his house in Beit Hanina town, northeast of Jerusalem. Fayez Izhiman, the homeowner, stated that the Israeli municipality ordered him at first to demolish the concrete ceiling of a room in the house and gave him the option of replacing it with a wooden ceiling, so he had to do so before it recently asked him to knock down all the room's walls. Izhaiman said that the municipality also sent a crew later to put marks on the room's walls that must be demolished and gave him until next month to carry out the measure. That part of the house was a living room and its demolition led the other room to lose some of its walls. In June 2020, the Israeli municipality also forced him to demolish part of his house and pay a fine of 9,000 shekels, but later he had to rebuild it because he had no other place to live in. (PALINFO 6 September 2021)
- A Palestinian family from the al-Bustan neighborhood in Silwan town, in occupied Jerusalem, was forced to demolish its home after the City Council denied their appeals. The Dweik local family was forced to demolish its own home to avoid the excessively high fines and fees, especially if the City Council uses its workers and equipment to demolish the property. The family received the demolition order twenty days ago, and tried to appeal the decision but to no avail. The 80 square/meter home provided shelter to nine family members, including 7 children between the ages of 7 and 16m, and was constructed in the year 2017. (IMEMC 8 September 2021)

- The Jerusalemite man Nedal al-Rajabi refused to self-demolish his own house in Silwan in Occupied Jerusalem after the Israeli occupation authority (IOA) delivered him a demolition order that should be carried out within a 21 days deadline. Rajabi said that if the IOA wants to demolish his house, then they have to implement it on its own. (PALINFO 23 September 2021)
- The Israeli Occupation Army (IOA) invaded the al-Lubban ash-Sharqiya village, south of the northern West Bank city of Nablus, and stopped the rehabilitation work of a road, in addition to confiscating a bulldozer. The IOA attacked workers, and pointed their guns at them, before confiscating a bulldozer. The workers were rehabilitating the road as part of a project which was initiated by the Village Council a month ago. (IMEMC 24 September 2021)

Israeli Military Orders

- The Israeli government issued an order for the illegal annexation of 48.700 Dunams of Palestinian lands in Kisan village, east of Bethlehem, south of the occupied Palestinian capital Jerusalem, in the West Bank. The lands are entirely privately owned by the local family of Awadallah, in the southeastern area of the village. Israel decided, without prior notice, to take the lands from their Palestinian owners to turn them into what the occupation government dubbed as a “natural reserve.” The decision was made to allow the expansion of the illegal Abie HaNahal settlement, which was built on stolen Palestinian lands. Immediately after the decision was made, Israeli settlers from Abie HaNahal started the preparation for a new segregated road on a Palestinian mountain overlooking the Wad al-Hajjar valley, northwest of Kisan. The planned road would be 4 meters wide and extend 2 kilometers on the Palestinian lands. Settlers are also planning to link the annexed lands with the Industrial zone which was built on stolen Palestinian lands west of the village, in addition to plans to install solar panels and a recycling factory. (IMEMC 21 September 2021)

Confiscation & Razing of lands

- The Israeli occupation army (IOA) notified four Palestinian citizens of intent to bulldoze their grapevine plantations in Battir town, west of Bethlehem. Those citizens planted their own swaths of land with grapevines about five years ago in al-Qusair area of the town and they have documents proving their ownership of their lands. The Israeli army justified its intended measure by claiming that the entire area is

Israeli state land. The vineyards belong to Khalil Abu Ni'mah, Ghassan Abu Ni'mah, Ameen Farrah and Hijazi Asila. (PALINFO 6 September 2021)

- The Israeli Occupation Army (IOA) bulldozed Palestinian lands close to the separation Wall, west of Deir al-Ghosoun town, north of Tulkarem, in northern West Bank. The bulldozed lands are two dunams owned by a local man, identified as Thafer Na'im Ghanem. The IOA accompanied by bulldozers, invaded the lands and started bulldozing them without a prior warning or a 'justification.' The IOA also informed the Palestinians that they are not allowed to enter the lands for a month. The lands were previously planted with vegetables, and had a few hothouses, however, due to repeated Israeli invasions, and uprooting, in addition to the repeated firing of gas bombs into the hothouses, the Palestinian turned them mostly into a garage and a car repair facility. It is worth mentioning that, during the invasion and the bulldozing of the lands, the IOA fired gas bombs and attacked Palestinian reporters to push them away. (IMEMC 13 September 2021)

- The Israeli occupation authorities (IOA) imposed a hermetic closure on the West Bank and Gaza Strip on the occasion of the Jewish holy day, Sukkot. The closure starts at noon Monday and ends at midnight Wednesday. This is the third closure imposed on the occupied Palestinian territories this month, the first was for Hebrew new year, and the second was for Yom Kippur. The IOA yearly imposes these closures during the Jewish holidays, which badly affect the Palestinians in West Bank and Gaza Strip. In the West Bank, thousands of Palestinian workers are deprived of going to work, others face difficulties of moving between the cities due to the IOA strict security measures. In Gaza, patients are deprived of travel for treatment in the West Bank or the 1948 Occupied Palestine (Israel). (PALINFO 20 September 2021)
