Other

- Defense budget to get additional $1 billion. (Knesset's Finance Committee appropriates $481 million for defense spending, additional $650 million for weapons development • Funds bring 2014 defense budget to record $17 billion • Budget approved following heated debate over cuts to civilian projects.) The Knesset's Finance Committee on Tuesday approved the appropriation of an additional 3.95 billion shekels ($1.13 billion) to the defense budget. The increase will bring the 2014 defense budget to a new high of NIS 60 billion ($17 billion). The motion was carried by a vote of 8-5, following a heated debate during which many opposition MKs on the committee were repeatedly called to order, and MK Stav Shaffir (Labor) had to be removed from the meeting. The committee approved the immediate appropriation of NIS 1.68 billion ($481 million) to the defense establishment, and an additional NIS 2.27 billion ($650 million) for weapon development. The funds were approved in addition to a previous appropriation of NIS 500 million ($143 million), granted to the Defense Ministry in July. The committee did not discuss the details of the Defense Ministry's budgetary requirements, which will be given to the Knesset's Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee, in a closed-door hearing, in the coming days. The secrecy shrouding the budget appropriation to the Defense Ministry -- at the expense of several civilian budgets and projects, including housing, public transportation and water infrastructure -- irked the opposition MKs serving on the Finance Committee.
