Asked on the matter by reports in Lisbon, the premier said "It's our full right to do so if we decide," despite the ICC prosecutor's report. Asked about a timeline for the proposed annexation, Netanyahu said "there are some questions about what can be done in a transition government. Exactly because of that we should form a government now and do it." Click here to read the full report. When asked whether he would agree to renounce serving first as prime minister in a rotation agreement if Kahol Lavan agrees to annex the Jordan Valley and to a defense treaty with the United States, Netanyahu said "those things will be achieved when I'm prime minister. I have thousands of hours on American prime-time TV and that has a certain influence on the United States, especially now. I won't be able [to influence] if I'm not prime minister."
