Ahmed Jibril, the head of the emergency and ambulance of the Palestinian Red Crescent Society in Nablus, stated that soldiers assaulted four journalists, and another required hospitalization from injuries sustained at the protest.  - A group of fanatic illegal Israeli colonizers attacked on Thursday night, several Palestinians near the Ibrahimi Mosque in the southern West Bank city of Hebron before the soldiers abducted a young Palestinian man. Eyewitnesses said the Israeli colonizers attacked several Palestinians in the Sahla Street, near the Ibrahimi Mosque, prompting the Palestinians to defend themselves from their assailants. Aref Jaber, a member of the Human Rights Coalition in Hebron, said the soldiers arrived at the scene and abducted a young Palestinian man, identified as Hani Abu Sneina. He added that the soldiers also assaulted Abu Sneina before abducting him instead of removing the assailing Israeli colonizers. (IMEMC 11 February 2022)
 - Dozens of Palestinians suffered breathing problems from teargas inhalation after Israeli occupation forces (IOF) raided Burqa and Bazariya towns, northwest of Nablus, late Thursday night. Israeli Settler Violence

- On Friday, illegal Israeli colonizers attacked a Palestinian shepherd in Kisan village, east of Bethlehem, south of occupied Jerusalem in the West Bank, before Israeli soldiers abducted him instead of removing the assailants. Local nonviolent activist, Ahmad Ghazal, stated that the colonizers came from the illegal Maale Amos colony, built on stolen Palestinian lands. He added that the colonizers assaulted Obeidallah Mahmoud Obeyyat, 28, while herding his sheep and maced him with pepper spray. Ghazal also said that Israeli soldiers arrived at the scene and abducted Obeidallah instead of detaining the colonizers who assaulted him. It is worth mentioning that Kisan is subject to escalating Israeli violations, including an attack that injured two women, identified as Fatima and Nayfa Obeyyat, two days earlier. (IMEMC 11 February 2022)
- A horde of Jewish settlers attacked a Palestinian shepherd in Kisan village, east of Bethlehem in the occupied West Bank, on Friday morning. Local sources said that settlers from the illegal settlement of Ma'ale Amos savagely beat a Palestinian shepherd and sprayed him with pepper gas. Israeli occupation forces (IOF) immediately rushed to the area and arrested the shepherd on charges of confronting the attacking settlers. The local residents in the area, especially the villagers of Kisan, are exposed to daily assaults by Jewish settlers and IOF soldiers. (PALINFO 11 February 2022)

Home Demolition & Demolition threats

- The Israeli authorities in the occupied capital, Jerusalem, forced an elderly Palestinian man to demolish his home, Friday evening, in Ras al-Amoud in Silwan town, south of the Al-Aqsa Mosque. The Al-Qastal News said the soldiers forced Mahmoud Abu Thiab, 78, to demolish his home after his appeals were denied. The small, destroyed home provided shelter for the elderly man and his wife. The Palestinian was informed that he either demolishes his home at his own expense or be forced to pay 50-60 thousand shekels in fines and fees if the city uses its workers and equipment to destroy the property. With tears in his eyes, Mahmoud told Al-Qastal News: “Where are we supposed to go?!, What are we supposed to do...?! We have nobody to take care of us, we are elders, and we have no place to live..., Israel has no mercy and knows no compassion....” “What else can I say? We are just homeless now... I don’t have money; I am a poor elderly man, and my wife too... Where are we supposed to go, enough is enough, they told me you either demolish your home or we will, I have no resources, I cannot pay those expenses and fines...” he added. Dozens of Palestinians face the same fate and are forced to demolish their homes and property to avoid these excessive fines. (IMEMC 11 February 2022)

- Israeli soldiers continued Thursday, the bulldozing of Palestinian lands, the uprooting of dozens of trees, and the demotion of retaining walls near Sarta village, west of Salfit, in the central part of the occupied West Bank. The lands, subject to the Israeli violations over the last several days, are in the Ezbet Abu Adam area, in the eastern part of Sarta village. The Mayor of Sarta, Ibrahim Khatib, stated that Israel has been uprooting privately-owned Palestinian lands and demolishing retaining walls to install water pipelines and to pave a 12-meter-wide and 15-kilometer-long segregated road leading to the illegal Burkan colony on large areas of stolen Palestinian lands in the village. |Related: Israel Plans To “Legalize” And Provide Infrastructure For Illegal Outposts|. Khatib added that the work is conducted by the “Mekorot” Israeli “national water company,” which controls the Palestinian water resources in the occupied West Bank. “So far, they have demolished several retaining walls made of rocks and cement walls...,” he said, “they also uprooted ten almond trees and at least 150 olive trees in the same area.” On Wednesday, a group of illegal Israeli colonizers uprooted 110 Palestinian olive saplings in Bruqin town, west of Salfit. All of Israel’s colonies in the occupied West Bank, including those in and around occupied East Jerusalem, are illegal under International Law, the Fourth Geneva Convention, in addition to various United Nations and Security Council resolutions. They also constitute war crimes under International Humanitarian Law. (PALINFO 11 February 2022)

Israeli Military Orders

- In the village of Kisan, east of Bethlehem, the Israeli government on Thursday approved the theft of 49,000 dunams (21,000 acres) of village land – stretching from the outskirts of the city of Bethlehem on the west all the way to the Dead Sea on the east. The confiscation decision had originally been announced last September on 9/21/2021, but the Palestinian landowners had filed objections with the Israeli court. On Thursday, the Israeli authorities announced that the period of the first and second objections had expired – even though the Palestinian landowners had ever had their day in court. Instead, the Israeli authorities simply dismissed the claims of the landowners and said that the land in question would be transferred to Israeli “state ownership”. According to Israeli sources, the Israeli authorities plan to turn the area into a so-called “nature reserve” in order to expand Israeli development on the land. By declaring it a “nature reserve”, they would be allowed by the Israeli government to expand Israeli kibbutzim (agricultural developments under the control of the Israeli Ministry of Agriculture). Thursday’s decision to go ahead with the land confiscation will mean that the Israeli colony of “Ibi Hanahel”, which is built on the lands of Kisan village, will be expanded. The sheds, containers and agricultural barns will be expanded for the benefit of the Jewish Israeli settlers, while the Palestinian farmers will be forcibly displaced from their ancestral land. This land confiscation is allowed by the Israeli government under the so-called ‘absentee property law’, in which a Palestinian landowner who is not continuously present on their land is subjected to the confiscation of that land by the Israeli government. Such land confiscation is illegal under the international law and the Fourth Geneva Convention, but the Israeli government refuses to adhere to its obligations under international law.
