- The Israeli occupation authority (IOA) forced a Jerusalemite citizen to demolish his own house in Beit Hanina town and another one to demolish his stores in Jabel Mukaber neighborhood at the pretext of unlicensed construction. According to local sources, seven individuals of al-Rajbi families were rendered homeless after the IOA forced them to knock down their home in Beit Hanina, northeast of the holy city. The homeowner, Jalal al-Rajbi, said that he had received a few weeks ago a notice from the IOA ordering him to raze his own home at his own expense to avoid paying exorbitant money if its bulldozers carried out the measure. He added that an Israeli court issued a verdict about two weeks ago in this regard and gave him one week to comply with it. Rajbi lived in that house with his wife and five children. Meanwhile, the IOA forced the Khalaila family in the east Jerusalem neighborhood of Jabel Mukaber to demolish three commercial stores belonging to it. Malek Khalaila, the owner, said that the IOA forced him to raze three stores he rented to Jerusalemite citizens, describing the property as a main source of livelihood for his family and the tenants. The Jerusalemites have no choice but to build without licenses because there are no structural maps that respond to the natural increase in their numbers, and for that reason, they are denied house permits. The IOA also imposes building restrictions on the Palestinian natives in Jerusalem and makes it hard for them to obtain construction licenses. Israel's systematic demolition of Palestinian homes in Occupied Jerusalem is believed to be aimed at psychologically destroying the Jerusalemite families in an attempt to force them to move from the holy city. - The Israeli occupation authority (IOA) demolished two Palestinian homes in the West Bank and Jerusalem at the pretext of unlicensed construction. - The Israeli occupation authorities (IOA) handed the family of two imprisoned brothers a demolition order against their family house. The two brothers Ghaith and Omar Jaradat were accused of being allegedly involved in a shooting attack near the evacuated Homesh settlement last December. Their mother, Awatef Jaradat, was also arrested following the alleged attack. Since then, her detention was renewed more than once. Israeli authorities have long used to punitively demolish the family homes of Palestinians accused of carrying out attacks on Israelis, a policy that Israel does not apply to Jewish settlers who are involved in fatal attacks against Palestinians. The policy has been widely condemned by human rights groups as a collective punishment and a war crime. (PALINFO 20 January 2022)

Regavim pro colonies group invaded the area, and handed the demolition orders to the two schools, for “being built without permits” from the so-called Civil Administration Office, the administrative branch of the illegal Israeli occupation. Breijiyya added that the demolition orders target Kisan School and Tahadi 5 School, and said that the Tahadi school was previously demolished and rebuilt five times, while Kisan School received an order earlier this month, halting construction and expansion. It is worth mentioning that the children in the two schools are also subject to frequent Israeli violations and attacks by both the soldiers and the illegal Israeli colonizers. (IMEMC 24 January 2022)

- Israeli soldiers invaded the town of Rojeeb east of the northern West Bank city of Nablus and handed demolition orders targeting four homes. Ghassan Daghlas, a Palestinian official who monitors Israel’s illegal colonialist activities in northern West Bank, said many army jeeps invaded the Khallet ar-Raje’ area in Rojeeb after surrounding it. He added that the soldiers handed Samer Ajjouri, Rafe’ Odeili, Zakariyya Issa, and Azzam al-Kharraz, military orders for the demolition of their homes. The homes were licensed by the Local Council in Rojeeb, however, the army claims they didn’t receive permits from the so-called “Civil Administration Office,” the administrative branch of the illegal Israeli occupation. While Israel continues to build and expand its illegal colonies, Palestinian communities, and towns, in occupied Jerusalem, and various areas in the occupied West Bank, continue to be denied the right to build homes and property. - The Israeli High Court issued a ruling, Friday, canceling a preliminary resolution preventing the Israeli army from demolishing a 250 square/meter Palestinian water reservoir, owned by Thabet Abu Thabet on his privately owned land in Furush Beit Dajan area, east of the northern West Bank city of Nablus. The Palestinian Ministry of Agriculture issued a statement denouncing the upcoming demolition of the water reservoir and said: “Israel’s illegal occupation is waging a war even on the water that Palestinians use for drinking and agriculture.” It added that such decisions aim at the forcible exile of the Palestinians from their lands, and said that the decision, which was made during extensive snow covering various parts of occupied Palestine, is just another proof of the cruel and criminal nature of the Israeli occupation. The Ministry stated that the water reservoir was built with the support of the Palestinian Authority as part of a variety of projects approved by the government to aid the farmers who are subjects to extreme water shortages in addition to escalating violations by the Israeli soldiers and the illegal colonizers, living on stolen Palestinian lands. It is worth mentioning that the demolition order was issued on January 5th, and was based on military order #1798, aiming at speeding the demolitions of Palestinian buildings and structures in Area C of the occupied West Bank. The Palestinian, Abu Thabet, first headed to the Jerusalem Legal Aid and Human Rights Center, before its legal team filed an urgent appeal in cooperation with the Wall & Colonization Resistance Commission, and the Legal Counselor in Nablus. However, it took the so-called Civil Administration Office, the administrative branch of Israel’s illegal occupation, only five days to deny the appeal, before the Jerusalem Legal Aid and Human Rights Center filed an appeal with the Israeli Prosecutor’s Office, asking for some time to prepare a second appeal. On January 23rd, 2022, the Israeli Prosecutor’s Office presented its response to the court, before the court issued a ruling denying the Palestinian appeal and imposing a fee of 3500 Shekels in court costs. The Palestinian Ministry of Agriculture said the Israeli ruling aims at paving the way from the demolition and displacement of the al-Khan al-Ahmar Bedouin community, east of Jerusalem, and came after Israel decided to demolish Ein Samia school, east of Ramallah. While the road will be accessible to Palestinians (a fact touted by Israel as proof of Israeli good intentions), its clear primary purpose is to entrench Israel settlements, expand Israeli control over all of East Jerusalem, and close off Palestinian East Jerusalem neighborhoods from the rest of the West Bank, thereby (further) torpedoing Palestinian hopes of one day establishing a capital in East Jerusalem. Israel began work on this road in June 2020, and recently completed the first phase of construction. - A new report released found that the Israeli government has developed a plan to forcibly remove the 200 residents of the village of Khan al-Ahmar in order to expand Israeli colonization onto the land. According to the report by Israeli Channel 12 news, the Israeli government has drawn up a new plan aimed at evacuating the village of Khan al-Ahmar, east of occupied Jerusalem, and forcibly displacing its residents during the coming period. The plan calls for the evacuation of Khan al-Ahmar and the rebuilding of the village later in a neighboring area about 3 kilometers from the original site of the village, and the transfer of the residents to this new location. This forced displacement of the residents is a direct violation of international law, and in the case of Khan al-Ahmar, is a violation of the International Criminal Court's assertion that the deportation of the villagers of Khan al-Ahmar amounts to a "war crime." The case of the village of Khan al-Ahmar was brought to the International Criminal Court six months ago, and the Israeli government had backed off on its attempts to forcibly remove the residents. But now, the newly-revealed report shows, the Israeli government has re-launched plans to displace the village and all of its residents. The Channel 12 report indicated that the new plan was discussed in the corridors of the Israeli cabinet, between members of the National Security Council affiliated with the office of Prime Minister Naftali Bennett. The new plan comes ahead of the session of the Israeli High Court, which is scheduled to hear the case of Khan al-Ahmar on March 6th. The residents had requested to postpone the eviction and displacement from their homes. The Israeli authorities claim that the village of Khan al-Ahmar is built on what is called "state land", and that it was built without a permit. On September 29, the so-called "Israeli Supreme Court" agreed to postpone the deportation and eviction of the residents of the village of Khan al-Ahmar for an additional six months, in light of the continued pressure of the international community. The village of Khan al-Ahmar is surrounded by a number of Israeli colonial settlements, and is located within the lands targeted by the Israeli occupation to implement its "E1" settlement project.

About 200 Palestinians live in the village, 53% of whom are children, and 95% of whom are refugees registered with the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees (UNRWA). The land in question also houses a school serving 170 students, from several places in the area. (IMEMC 27 January 2022)

- A Palestinian researcher has condemned an Israeli decision to demolish a water tank in the West Bank village Furush Beit Dajan in eastern Nablus, describing the intended measure as part of Israeli efforts to force the local population to leave their areas and homes. Saher Sarsour, researcher at the Jerusalem Legal Aid and Human Rights, stated that this court recently gave the green light for the demolition of a 250-cubic-meter water tank used by the local residents of Furush Beit Dajan. Sarsour warned that the Israeli occupation authority (IOA) seeks to accelerate its demolition campaign against Palestinian homes and structures in Area C of the West Bank, which is under its military control according to Oslo accords. He pointed out that the IOA and its courts prevent the Palestinians living on their lands in Area C from obtaining construction permits and demolish anything they build or place for themselves, including wells, tanks, and agricultural and livestock structures. He also said that the IOA, which intends to demolish this water tank in the village, drilled and built two artesian wells in the middle of Furush Beit Dajan to exclusively supply nearby Jewish settlements with water. Israeli Military Orders during the month of February 2022

- In the village of Kisan, east of Bethlehem, the Israeli government approved the theft of 49,000 dunams (21,000 acres) of village land – stretching from the outskirts of the city of Bethlehem on the west all the way to the Dead Sea on the east. The confiscation decision had originally been announced last September on 9/21/2021, but the Palestinian landowners had filed objections with the Israeli court. The Israeli authorities announced that the period of the first and second objections had expired – even though the Palestinian landowners had ever had their day in court. Instead, the Israeli authorities simply dismissed the claims of the landowners and said that the land in question would be transferred to Israeli “state ownership”. According to Israeli sources, the Israeli authorities plan to turn the area into a so-called “nature reserve” in order to expand Israeli development on the land. By declaring it a “nature reserve”, they would be allowed by the Israeli government to expand Israeli kibbutzim (agricultural developments under the control of the Israeli Ministry of Agriculture). Thursday's decision to go ahead with the land confiscation will mean that the Israeli colony of "Ibi Hanahel", which is built on the lands of Kisan village, will be expanded. The sheds, containers and agricultural barns will be expanded for the benefit of the Jewish Israeli settlers, while the Palestinian farmers will be forcibly displaced from their ancestral land. This land confiscation is allowed by the Israeli government under the so-called 'absentee property law', in which a Palestinian landowner who is not continuously present on their land is subjected to the confiscation of that land by the Israeli government. Such land confiscation is illegal under the international law and the Fourth Geneva Convention, but the Israeli government refuses to adhere to its obligations under international law. - The Israeli occupation Army (IOA) injured many Palestinians near Nablus, in the northern part of the occupied West Bank, during a protest that took place after Israeli settlers assaulted the residents and destroyed agricultural structures. Dozens of Palestinians suffered the effects of tear gas inhalation, in addition to cuts and bruises, when the IOA fired many gas bombs and rubber-coated steel bullets at them. The Palestinians were trying to remove Israeli settlers who invaded the area of the local water spring and the local agricultural project. During the attack, the settlers also destroyed doors and removed fences around the area. (IMEMC 5 January 2022)

- Dozens of Israeli settlers invaded the archaeological area in Sebastia Palestinian town, northwest of the northern West Bank city of Nablus. The Israeli Occupation Army (IOA) closed the entire area to the Palestinians, to allow the settlers to tour the area. The IOA also installed roadblocks nearby, before stopping and searching many Palestinian cars and interrogated the residents while inspecting their ID cards. Starting more than a year ago, the invasions into the archaeological area in Sebastia area carried out every Wednesday. (IMEMC 5 January 2022)
- The Israeli occupation authority (IOA) bulldozed Palestinian-owned plots of land in the east Jerusalem Governorate of Issawiya. Israeli bulldozers escorted by police forces leveled swaths of land in Hamayel al-Arab area in Issawiya district. Israeli bulldozers also bulldozed anew a swath of land belonging to the family of Fadi Elyan, the Aqsa Mosque guard whose home was demolished last March. This piece of land is the site of the demolished house. (PALINFO 10 January 2022)
- Israeli bulldozers razed Palestinian-owned lands, and uprooted dozens of trees in the historical village of Battir, west of Bethlehem city, in the southern occupied West Bank. The Israeli army accompanied a bulldozer into the village and proceeded to demolish retaining walls, and a water reservoir in addition to uprooting dozens of almond and olive saplings. The heavy machinery also razed an agricultural road and razed approximately 40 dunams of fertile agricultural land belonging to local Palestinian residents. (IMEMC 11 January 2022)
- The Israeli Occupation Army (IOA) accompanied by bulldozers, invaded Palestinian lands near Huwwara, south of the northern West Bank city of Nablus, before uprooting and razing at least 50 Dunams to expand the Yitzhar settlement which was built on stolen Palestinian lands. The IOA isolated the entire area after invading it. The IOA then bulldozed and uprooted fifty Dunams of privately-owned Palestinian lands to expand the Yitzhar settlement. A group of settlers installed a few mobile homes in the area to install an outpost that would be part of the settlement and added that the IOA barred the Palestinian owners of the lands from entering their property. (IMEMC 11 January 2022)
- Israeli occupation forcers (IOF) escorted a number of military bulldozers into southern and northern Gaza Strip border areas. Four Israeli bulldozers escorted by two IOF Merkava tanks advanced into the outskirts of Khuza'a town to the east of Khan Younis in southern Gaza Strip. A similar limited incursion was reported in northern Beit Lahia town to the north of the Gaza Strip. The IOF troops routinely advance into Gaza border areas and level agricultural land, damaging crops and firing at farmers in the process. (IMEMC 18 January 2022)

- Jewish settlers from the illegal outpost of Ahiya started to bulldoze swaths of land in southern Nablus near Jalud town in southern Nablus. Local official Ghassan Daghlas said that Ahiya settlers using bulldozers embarked on leveling about five dunums of land in Jabel Arrus area, which is located 200 meters away from Jalud town. Daghlas added that the bulldozing activity is aimed at expanding the settler outpost. In a separate incident, an Israeli court decided to freeze the demolition of a Mosque under construction in the east Jerusalem district of Issawiya until February 14. On January 3, Israeli police forces stormed the area where the Mosque is located and threatened to demolish it through an administrative order if the local residents continued to build it. (PALINFO 20 January 2022)
- The Israeli occupation authority (IOA) unleashed its bulldozers on Palestinian land in Dura town to the south of al-Khalil on Sunday morning and levelled 50 dunums of cultivated land lots. Walid Abu Sharar, one of the victims of the bulldozing act, said in a press statement that the bulldozing was meant to pave the way for annexing the land to a nearby Jewish settlement. He recalled that settlers of that settlement had recurrently tried to seize the land owned by Abu Sharar and Nasr families. Abu Sharar noted that the settlers had seized a water well that was formerly used by Palestinians for drinking purposes in the area. He said that the settlers were using the well in irrigating their crops and filling their swimming pools. In another settler violation, the head of the Qeera village council in northern Salfit, Ashraf Ziyada, said that groups of settlers damaged the tires of seven cars in the village on Sunday. He said that the settlers raided the village at dawn, damaged the tires of the seven cars and sprayed racist graffiti on them including death threats. (PAPLINFO 23 January 2022)

Confiscation & Razing of lands during the month of February 2022

- Israeli soldiers bulldozed, Sunday, large areas of Palestinian lands in Kisan village, east of Bethlehem, south of occupied Jerusalem, in the West Bank. The soldiers bulldozed the lands in Bir al-Mizrab area, in the southern part of the village. The soldiers bulldozed 30 Dunams of agricultural lands owned by the local Abu Jalgheef family. The bulldozing and uprooting of the lands took place to expand a nearby Israeli colony, illegally built on stolen Palestinian lands. (IMEMC 7 February 2022)

- Israeli soldiers uprooted Palestinian agricultural lands in Qusra and Jourish towns, south of Nablus, in the northern part of the occupied West Bank. Ghassan Daghlas, a Palestinian official who monitors Israel's illegal colonialist activities in northern West Bank, said the soldiers bulldozed Palestinian farmlands northeast of Qusra and near Jourish. He added that the bulldozing aims at expanding the illegal Migdalim colony, built on stolen privately-owned Palestinian lands. Daghlas also said the soldiers bulldozed, for the third consecutive day, Palestinian lands southeast of Qusra to expand the illegal Esh Kodesh illegal colony. (IMEMC 16 February 2022)

- Several Israeli military vehicles invaded Palestinian agricultural lands, east of Khan Younis, in the southern part of the besieged Gaza Strip, and bulldozed sections close to the perimeter fence. Four tanks and four armored bulldozers advanced dozens of meters into the farmlands and bulldozed them, in addition to installing sand hills near the perimeter fence. The soldiers fired sporadic rounds of live ammunition and smoke bombs during the invasion. (IMEMC 28 February 2022)
- Israeli soldiers on military towers across the perimeter fence in the Gaza Strip fired many rounds and gas bombs at farmers and shepherds, east of Khuza'a town, east of Khan Younis. (IMEMC 28 February 2022)

Confiscation & Razing of lands during the month of March 2022

- Several armored Israeli military vehicles, including bulldozers, invaded Palestinian farmlands in several parts of the besieged Gaza Strip and bulldozed them in addition to firing many live rounds and smoke bombs. Two tanks and eight bulldozers invaded Palestinian agricultural lands in Beit Hanoun, in the northern part of the coastal region, and fired many live rounds while bulldozing the lands and installing sand hills near the perimeter fence. The soldiers, stationed on military towers across the fence, east of Khan Younis in the southern part of the Gaza Strip, fired many live rounds and smoke bombs at Palestinian farmers east of Abasan al-Jadeeda and the al-Qarara towns, forcing them to leave, before several vehicles invaded the lands. In addition, the soldiers fired many live rounds at farmers east of the Zeitoun neighborhood, southeast of Gaza city, forcing them to leave. (IMEMC 14 March 2022)

- Israeli soldiers invaded Palestinian farmlands in Wadi Fukin village, west of Bethlehem in the occupied West Bank, before bulldozing four dunams and uprooting at least thirty olive saplings. The military vehicles and bulldozers invaded farmlands in the al-Qabo area before bulldozing four Dunams in addition to uprooting at least thirty olive trees. Yasser Obeid and his brothers own the lands; however, the Israeli occupation army claims they are “state lands,” a move that usually precedes the confiscation to build the illegal Israeli colonies on the stolen lands. The lands were illegally confiscated three weeks ago after the army informed the Palestinians that he was not allowed to enter or work on his land. (IMEMC 22 March 2022)
- Israeli occupation forces (IOF) bulldozed 100 dunums of land in Qalqilia, to the north of the West Bank. The bulldozed land was near to an Israeli settlement’s industrial area, which was built on Palestinian land. The tract of land belonged to Palestinian families in the villages of Azzun, Hibla, and Kufr Thuluth in southern Qalqilia. (PALINFO 23 March 2022)
- Israeli bulldozers razed agricultural lands and uprooted dozens of olive trees, in Wadi Fukin, west of Bethlehem. Israeli forces bulldozed 4-dunums of land in the “Al-Qabou” area, and uprooted 30 olive trees, owned by local farmers. (PALINFO 23 March 2022)

Expansion of settlements

Expansion of settlements during the month of January 2022

- The Israeli local committee for planning and construction of the Jerusalem Municipality approved five new plans beyond the Green Line in Jerusalem for 3,557 new housing units. One plan is between Har Homa and Givat Hamatos, and the other plans are on the edge of French Hill towards Mount Scopus. All of the plans are bad news for the stability of Jerusalem and for the chances for peace, but the most harmful plan in terms of the possibility to reach two states, is the plan known as the “lower aqueduct plan” south of Kibbutz Ramat Rachel near Givat Hamatos and Har Homa, for the construction of a new neighborhood with 1,465 housing units. The new neighborhood is intended to connect the settlement of Har Homa with Givat Hamatos and complete the Israeli southern ring that will block the potential Palestinian continuum between the Palestinian neighborhoods in East Jerusalem and Bethlehem. The Local Committee of the Jerusalem Municipality has no authority to approve the plan but rather to recommend to the District Committee. However, on January 17, 2022, the plans will be discussed for deposit in the Jerusalem District Planning and Construction Committee. The District Committee has the authority to approve the plans and once they pass the approval for the deposit, the statutory planning process begins, which usually takes about a year or two. After the approval of the District Committee, it is much more difficult to stop the plan (PEACENOW 5 January 2022)

- The Israel Lands Authority published a tender for the construction of 300 settlement units in the East Talpiyot settlement, located in East Jerusalem. The tender is scheduled to be opened for bids on February 14th. The new units will expand the built-up footprint of East Talpiyot in the direction of the Palestinian neighborhood of Sur Baher, a neighborhood that is facing multiple new settlement plans that encroach on its historic land (including the Givat HaMatos, Har Homa, and Lower Aqueduct plans). (FMEP 5 January 2022)
- The Jerusalem Municipal Planning Committee advanced a plan – referred to as the “Lower Aqueduct Plan” – to build a new settlement with 1,457 units in East Jerusalem land located between two already controversial settlements on the southern flank of East Jerusalem: Givat Hamatos and Har Homa. The new settlement is intended to connect the Givat Hamatos and Har Homa, establishing an uninterrupted continuum of Israeli settlements on the southern rim of Jerusalem, and destroying the contiguity of Palestinian land in the West Bank and East Jerusalem. With approval from the municipal planning authority, the plan now goes to the Jerusalem District Planning Committee which will convene on January 17th to consider depositing the plan for public review. (FMEP 5 January 2022)
- The Jerusalem District Planning Committee gave its final approval to several plans that will add a total of 2,092 new units to the French Hill settlement in East Jerusalem, on the edge of Mount Scopus. Several plans relate to the Hebrew University campus on Mt. Scopus. These new plans, which expand the footprint of the Hebrew University campus but on land that is in the French Hill area (i.e. occupied territory), are: The “Bronfman Dormitory” plan to build 672 settlement units on land located in the French Hill settlement area (beyond the borders of the Mt. Scopus campus). This plan will completely encircle a Palestinian neighborhood (leaving it as an enclave surrounded by Israeli development), which “will greatly increase the construction in areas marked as Israeli, while blocking any further development of the Palestinian neighborhood.” The “Lerner Complex & Lower Resnick Dormitory” plan calls for the construction of 1027 units, the majority of which are designated for land east of the Green Line where there are currently student dormitories for the Hebrew University. The construction of 528 settlement units on land just north of the Jerusalem British War Cemetery, on land that is cut in half by the Green Line. (PEACENOW 5 January 2022)

- The Jerusalem District Planning Committee convened to discuss two plans that would add 1,538 settlement units to the Gilo settlement in East Jerusalem. The plans are being advanced under the banner of “urban renewal” and will involve demolishing existing settlement units and replacing 470 existing settlement units with 2,008 new units (representing a net expansion of the settlement by 1,538 units). While the plans will not necessarily enlarge Gilo territorially, it will increase the Israeli population in the settlement and hence the number of Israelis living in East Jerusalem.” (IR AMIM, FMEP 10 January 2022)
- Construction Begins on Key Stretch of the “Tunnels Road” for Settlements South of Jerusalem: ground has been broken on a final stretch of the new tunnel road that will connect settlements to the south of Jerusalem (the Etzion settlement bloc) more seamlessly to the heart of the city. The tunnel is part of Highway 60, which Israel has already begun work to widen, which runs from Jerusalem all the way to the Kiryat Arba in Hebron. (ARUTZ SHEVA, FMEP 10 January 2022)
- Yossi Dagan, head of a regional council for Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank, announced yesterday that he laid the foundation stone for the construction of hundreds of settler homes on Mount Gerizim in Nablus. Dagan said in press remarks that a foundation stone was laid for the building of a new settler neighborhood in Bracha settlement on Mount Gerizim, south of Nablus. According to him, the neighborhood will contain 127 housing units out of 800 the Israeli government had pledged to build in the settlement within four years. The Israeli government already built 547 of these 800 units as part of that pledge it had made about four years ago following the killing of a Bracha settler near the settlement of Ariel. (PALINFO 26 January 2022)

- The plan to establish a new settlement west of Ariel ("Ariel West") has recently undergone another stage on the road to realization. On 6/1/22, a notice was posted on the Civil Administration's website announcing the deposit of Plan No. 130/3/5 to amend the route of the access road to the new settlement, after it became clear that the access road planned in the original plan passes through private land. From the date of publication of the plan deposit, the public is given 60 days to file objections to the plan, but the counting of days begins only when the publication is made in a newspaper ad. As far as we were able to find out, as of 26/1/22 no ad has been published in the newspaper (usually the ad in the newspaper is published close to the internet publication, and if the promotion of the program is not canceled, it is likely that the ad will be published in the next few days). After the objections are filed and heard, the Higher Planning Council (HPC) of the Civil Administration may convene to approve the plan for validation.

Expansion of settlements during the month of February 2022

- Israel's outgoing attorney general Avichai Mandelblit has okayed the reconstruction of the evacuated settlement of Evyatar in Beita town south of Nablus, in the northern West Bank. Avichai Mandelblit has approved the move on his last day in his position. Evyatar settlement was evacuated seven months ago, amid growing Jewish calls for its reconstruction. The move came as part of a deal between the Israeli government and West Bank settlers that would retroactively authorize the outpost establishment without official approval. Under the agreement reached last year, the settlers left the outpost "peacefully" and the area became a closed military zone, with the houses and roads erected remaining in place. As part of the deal, a survey was carried out which, according to Israeli media reports, determined that part of the land was allegedly not owned by Palestinians, paving the way for the establishment of a religious school and for some settler families to return. The move pushes forward the deal, which still needs a final green light from the army minister Benny Gantz, who signed on to the plan last year. (PALINFO 2 February 2022)
- The Israeli occupation authorized, a settlement scheme for 1,500 units in occupied Jerusalem between the French Hill and the Hebrew University. The Israeli municipality 'Organizing and Building Committee' approved the plan for the construction on what it maintains is 'state land' although the 150 dunams of land is located in occupied Palestinian territory. The 1,500 colonial units will consist of 500 housing unit for Israeli students, 200 fortified rooms, in addition to residential buildings for long-term occupancy and public properties. All Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank, which includes East Jerusalem, have been deemed illegal under International Law. (IMEMC 3 February 2022)

- The Israeli government intends to meet within the coming few days to “legalize” and provide infrastructure for illegal colonialist outposts built on stolen Palestinian lands in the occupied West Bank. Israeli Kan News said the government wants to discuss the efforts to “legalize” dozens of illegal colonialist outposts ahead of providing them with infrastructure. The “legalization” attempts aim at connecting the outposts with electric grids, water, and sewage networks, in addition to infrastructure, which will also mean further annexation of private Palestinian lands. The meetings will include various officials and representatives of several government ministries and would take place in building the “Justice Ministry.” Several days ago, Israeli Channel Seven said a meeting is scheduled between Israel’s Interior Minister, Ayelet Shaked, with the Defense Minister, Benny Gantz, to reach an agreement on a plan that would “legalize” the outposts and provide them with infrastructure, including water and electricity. Ayelet Shaked, a member of the right-wing Jewish Home Party, is behind various efforts to legalize outposts and provide services to them along with the already “legalized” outposts, all built on stolen Palestinian lands in the occupied West Bank, including the occupied capital, Jerusalem. (IMEMC 6 February 2022)
- The Israeli occupation authority (IOA) intends to build thousands of new housing units for Jewish settlers in southern Jerusalem. The Israeli ministry of housing and construction approved a plan to build 5,250 settler homes near the zoo in Jerusalem. The project also includes the building of 300 hotel rooms and a commercial zone over 840 dunums of land. Last Tuesday, the Israeli municipality’s financial committee approved a budget of 800,000 shekels to prepare an alternative plan for the construction of this new neighborhood between the Palestinian village of Walaja and the zoo in southern Jerusalem. (PALINFO 6 February 2022)
- Israel has approved a 1 billion shekel ($310 million USD) plan to connect the illegal settlements in occupied East Jerusalem with neighborhoods in West Jerusalem with the goal of consolidating the occupation, according to a report by Radio Bethlehem and Kol Ha’ir. The Finance Committee for Occupation Municipality has approved these plans and programs in order link neighborhoods in West Jerusalem with the illegal settlements in East

Jerusalem. The plan includes expansion of the light rail, roads and infrastructure construction and replacement. 53 million shekels are slated to build the “American Bypass” road which would be a path from Jabal Al-Mukabber to the Ain Al-Lawza junction. Plans include building sidewalks, widening the road, building retaining walls to separate the road from the neighborhoods it will pass through, and sewage and water replacement. This project and others like it have historically created even more travel difficulties for Palestinians and in particular the American Bypass road, which was a project started in the 1960’s. In 2020 the American Road was criticized as “de-facto annexation” by Daniel Seidemann, a lawyer representing Palestinian families who suffered due to the construction. “What we are seeing here is, again, the seamless integration of the northern West Bank, East Jerusalem under sole Israeli control, and the southern West Bank for the purposes of the settlers,” said Seidemann. According to a report by Reuters in 2020. Construction will likely affect Palestinian communities in East Jerusalem as well as in surrounding areas including the allocation of 17.1 million shekels to modernize and expand the road in Beit Hanina heading to the west side of Jerusalem to help facilitate “movement of settlers from the settlements of Bizgat Ze’ev and Nabi Yaakov”, and 22.6 million shekels for the expansion of the street in the Gilo settlement – construction that will affect Palestinians as it will connect with the Begin-Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway. These new roads may pose another difficult question for the international community and for Israelis. In 2019, Route 4370 opened, a segregated highway built with the intention of ease of movement for settlers and engendered criticism as it is referred to as the “Apartheid Road”, built to separate via a wall in the highway, settlers and Palestinians, who are not allowed to enter Jerusalem, Haaretz reported. (HAARETZ, IMEMC 10 February 2022)

- The Israeli occupation authority (IOA) intends to build a new neighborhood in the illegal settlement of Itamar in the southeast of Nablus City, north of the West Bank. The channel said the local authorities started preparations for the building of a new neighborhood in the settlement to house 100 Jewish families. (IMEMC 15 February 2022)
- The Israeli occupation government intends to advance a plan to expand a Jewish national park onto church-owned lands and Christian holy sites in east Jerusalem by 275 dunums of land. The Times of Israel website claimed that the move, which it described as “unprecedented,” would not strip the landholders of their ownership, but it would give the Israeli government some authority over Palestinian and church properties and religious sites.

According to the website, Church officials and rights groups have condemned the measure as a land grab and a threat to the Christian presence in the holy city. The opponents of this Judaization project also highlighted the ties the Israeli institutions responsible for advancing this plan have with settler groups that work to anchor the Jewish presence in east Jerusalem areas, including the flashpoint Sheikh Jarrah neighborhood. Rights groups believe the planned park expansion is part of a larger strategy to control adjacent areas of east Jerusalem to encircle Jerusalem's Old City with Judaization projects. The website also said that the plan would see the borders of the Jerusalem Walls National Park extended to include a large section of the Mount of Olives along with additional nearby areas. It is slated to receive preliminary approval from the Jerusalem municipality's local planning and construction committee on March 2. The national park expansion plan is being advanced amid increasingly strained ties between the Israeli government and church leaders, who affirm that their communities are under constant threat by radical Jewish groups. (PALINFO, PEACENOW 20 February 2022)

Expansion of settlements during the month of March 2022

- An area in the occupied Jordan Valley that the Israeli authorities have turned into a nature reserve a few years ago is in the process of becoming a new settlement. Israeli settlers began to set up tents and animal sheds in the Bayyoud area, 400 meters east of Ein al-Hilweh community in the northern Jordan Valley on land that the Israeli occupation authorities have declared a few years ago as a nature reserve. The setting up of tents and sheds on this land is a prelude to building a new settlement in the area. (WAFA 3 March 2022)
- The Israeli local building committee of the Ma'aleh Adumim settlement, located just east of Jerusalem, approved what is reportedly the largest settlement expansion plan in over a decade. The plan would allow for 3,300 new settlement units as well as areas for public buildings. Assuming (conservatively) an average family size of 5, this means construction for at least 16,500 new settlers. The plan will now be sent to the Israel High Planning Council for its consideration and approval. Ma'ale Adumim is the largest settlement by size and population. In past negotiations, Israel has always included Ma'ale Adumim and the surrounding area as one of the "settlement blocs" that would be annexed to Israel under a final agreement. The Israeli political consensus around the annexation of Ma'aleh Adumim (which has not been meaningfully challenged in past negotiations) has, by and large, resulted in the implied acceptance that expansion of Ma'ale Adumim is treated as non-controversial or not as geopolitically consequential as new units built in settlements and outposts in other locations. However, it should be emphasized that the term "settlement bloc" has no legal definition or standing – not under Israeli law, or under international law, or in the context of the Oslo agreement – and the fate of Ma'ale Adumim, like all settlements, is a matter for future negotiations. Nonetheless, the Israeli government has for years deployed the "settlement blocs" terminology in an effort to legitimize settlement expansion in areas it wants, in effect, to unilaterally take off the table for any future negotiations.. (FMEP 3 March 2022)

- In a bid to steal Palestinian land, Israeli colonial settlers set up a large tent and a mobile home in the southern West Bank town of Battir, west of Bethlehem city. Armed settlers broke into an area east of Battir, razed land and set up a 40-meter-long by 10-meter-wide tent and a mobile home on privately-owned Palestinian land in the village. The land is 23 dunums in area and has been a target for takeover by the settlers in the past. Landowners confronted the settlers who threatened to attack the landowners if they come close to the land. The Israeli army, meanwhile, in collusion with the settlers, also prevents the landowners from reclaiming and developing their land, which they own deeds proving ownership. (Wafa 7 March 2022)
- The Israeli District Planning and Building Committee has approved a plan to build 730 new housing units in the Psgat Ze'ev settlement north of Jerusalem. Psgat Ze'ev expansion plan includes the construction of fourteen 12-storey buildings with 730 new housing units. 16 dunums will also be allocated for open spaces. (PALINFO 11 March 2022)
- The Israeli government approved the construction of 730 units for colonialist settlers in Pisgat Zeev illegal colony, built on stolen Palestinian lands in Beit Hanina, north of the occupied capital, Jerusalem, in the West Bank. The newly approved segregated units would be built on about 70 Dunams and would include 730 units in fourteen residential towers, each containing twelve floors. The plans also included 21,000 square-meters used to construct commercial buildings and employment spaces, in addition to 16 Dunams that would remain open space, for a park. (IMEMC 13 March 2022)

- Israeli colonizers began construction on the expansion of their colony, built on stolen Palestinian lands in the Northern Plains of the occupied West Bank. The colonizers started constructing new units in the illegal Shadmot Mehola colony, an issue that will lead to the illegal annexation of more Palestinian lands. The colonizers also installed a room on Palestinian lands in the al-Farisiyya village in the Northern Plains. The wood and tin room was set up on lands between Rotem and Shadmot Mehola colonies. (IMEMC 14 March 2022)
- The Israeli occupation authority (IOA) started bulldozing a vast tract of land in the east Jerusalem town of Beit Safafa to build a new settler neighborhood composed of 2,500 housing units in the illegal settlement of Givat Hamatos. The bulldozing operation unearthed an archeological site in the area, adding that the IOA had seized this land under the absentee property law. This new settler neighborhood would join other settlements that already encircle Beit Safafa as a prelude to building more roads and outposts for settlers in the area and inside Palestinian neighborhoods in Jerusalem, pointing out that the IOA already penetrated the town with a number of settler roads. The settler housing project is part of five plans that were approved at the beginning of the current year to build 3,557 settler homes in the holy city. (PALINFO 17 March 2022)
- The Israeli National Planning and Building Committee in Occupied Jerusalem has approved the construction of 1,200 housing units in the Kiryat Yuval settlement neighborhood illegally built in the holy city. The plan includes the demolition of five 8-storey buildings and the construction of 1,200 housing units on a total area of 30,000 square meters. A Jewish synagogue, a school, 11 kindergartens and other buildings will all be built in the area. Israeli authorities earlier approved the construction of two major Jewish-only towns in the Negev as part of a settlement expansion plan in proximity to areas where Palestinian citizens of Israel live. The plan would establish a town for ultra-orthodox Jews and a town for secularists. (IMEMC 25 March 2022)
- Israeli settlers of the Ateret Cohanim settlement movement broke into the Little Petra Hotel in occupied Jerusalem as well as into a local money-changing shop owned by the Patriarchate and rented by a Palestinian Jerusalemite at the hotel's entrance. (IMEMC 30 March 2022)

Erection of Israeli checkpoints

Erection of Israeli checkpoints during the month of January 2022

- The Israeli Occupation Army (IOA) installed a roadblock on the main road of the ar-Ram town, north of the occupied capital, Jerusalem, before stopping and searching dozens of cars, and interrogated many Palestinians while inspecting their ID cards. The Israeli Occupation Army (IOA) (IMEMC 9 January 2022)
- The Israeli Occupation Army (IOA) installed a military roadblock at the main entrance of Biddu town, northwest of the occupied Palestinian capital, Jerusalem, in the West Bank, before stopping and searching dozens of cars, and interrogated many Palestinians while inspecting their ID cards. (IMEMC 15 January 2022)

Erection of Israeli checkpoints during the month of March 2022

- Israeli soldiers closed the main road between two Palestinian towns in the northern West Bank with concrete blocks. Media sources said the soldiers closed the main road between Burqa and Silat ath-Thaher towns (the Jenin-Nablus Road) and forced the Palestinians to leave the area. The closed road is near the evacuated Homesh colony, and the soldiers closed it to allow groups of illegal Israeli colonizers to march in the area. (IMEMC 6 March 2022)

Israeli Closures

Israeli Closures during the month of January 2022

- The Israeli Occupation Army (IOA) closed a dirt road near Sebastia Palestinian town, northwest of the central West Bank city of Ramallah. The road links the town with villages and towns in Tulkarem governorate. (IMEMC 9 January 2022)
- The Israeli occupation forces (IOF) on Sunday evening blocked the road leading to an ancient site in Burqa village, northwest of Nablus. Local official Ghassan Daghlas said that the IOF closed once again the entrance to the historical area of al-Massoudiya with concrete blocks. He pointed out that the IOF closed and opened this entrance several times before, adding that over 12 Palestinian families live in Massoudiya area. Massoudiya area

- and its residents have been suffering from systematic violations and attacks by Israeli soldiers and settlers for long years. (PALINFO 31 January 2022)
- Israeli soldiers forced, on Saturday, Palestinian shops to close for the fourth day in a row, in the Old City of Hebron (Al-Khalil) in the southern occupied West Bank, according shop owners and a local official. Taysir Abu Sneineh, the mayor of Hebron, told the Palestinian News & Information Agency (WAFA) that soldiers ordered several Palestinian-owned shops on Shallaleh street to close their businesses in the Old City, without providing any reason. Abu Sneineh added that these shop owners rely on their businesses to provide for their families, and closing the stores makes it very difficult for them to make a living, adding that the goal of the occupation is to rid the city of the Palestinian population to make room for the illegal colonists living in the area. Palestinian activists from the Human Rights Defenders group organized a gathering to protest the unjustified closure of the shops, and confronted occupation soldiers. (IMEMC 29 January 2022)

Israeli Closures during the month of March 2022

- The Israeli occupation forces (IOF) closed on the same day the main entrance of Sinjil town in northern Ramallah with concrete blocks and mounds of rocks and dirt. A bulldozer escorted by soldiers blocked the northern road leading to the town and prevented the local residents from using it. The Israeli occupation army has a military post in the northern area of the town and bars local farmers from working hundreds of dunums of nearby land belonging to them. (PALINFO 7 March 2022)
- The Israeli occupation forces (IOF) closed the main entrance of al-Arroub refugee camp in northern Hebron and prevented Palestinian vehicles from entering or leaving the camp. The IOF also stormed the camp and embarked on firing volleys of tear gas and stun grenades at students as they were leaving their schools. Several students suffered from their exposure to tear gas during the IOF attack. (PALINFO 13 March 2022)
- Israeli soldiers closed with sand mounds an agricultural road in Qusra village, south of Nablus in the northern part of the occupied West Bank. The soldiers arrived in the area before the head of security in the illegal Esh Kodesh colony, used a bulldozer in placing sand mounds to close the road.
